Abulhawa, Susan Mornings in Jenin	In 1948 the Abulheja family are forcibly removed from their ancestral home in Ein Hod and sent to live in a refugee camp in Jenin. Through Amal, the bright granddaughter of the patriarch, we witness the stories of her brothers: one, a stolen boy who becomes an Israeli soldier; the other who in sacrificing everything for the Palestinian cause will become his enemy. Amal's own dramatic story threads its way through six decades of Palestinian-Israeli tension, eventually taking her into exile in Pennsylvania in America. Amal's is a story of love and loss...(Discussion questions at back of book)	10	2010 325 pages Historical fiction
Adiga, Aravind The White Tiger	Winner of 2008 Booker Prize for Fiction - Meet Balram Halwai, the 'White Tiger': servant, philosopher, entrepreneur, murderer. Born in a village in heartland India, the son of a rickshaw puller, Balram is taken out of school by his family and put to work in a teashop. As he crushes coals and wipes tables, he nurses a dream of escape - of breaking away from the banks of Mother Ganga, into whose depths have seeped the remains of a hundred generations. Balram's journey from darkness of village life to the light of entrepreneurial success is utterly amoral, brilliantly irreverent, deeply endearing and altogether unforgettable.	10	2008 321 pages India
Akhtar, Ayad Homeland Elegies	Blending fact and fiction to tell an epic story of longing and dispossession. This is part family drama and part social essay, at it's heart it is a story of a father and a son and the country they call home.	10	2020 343 pages Domestic America
Allende, Isabel In the midst of winter	Amid the biggest Brooklyn snowstorm in living memory, an unexpected friendship blossoms between three people thrown together by circumstance. Richard Bowmaster, a lonely university professor in his sixties, hits the car driven by Evelyn Ortega, a young, undocumented migrant from Guatemala. But what at first seems an inconvenience takes an unforeseen and darker turn when Evelyn comes to him and his neighbour Lucia Maraz, desperately seeking help. Sweeping from present-day Brooklyn to Guatemala to turbulent 1970s Chile and Brazil, and woven with Isabel Allende's trademark humanity, passion and storytelling verve, In the Midst of Winter is a mesmerizing and unforgettable tale.	10	2017 340 pages Historical fiction
Allende, Isabel The Japanese Lover	In 1939, as Poland falls under the shadow of the Nazis, young Alma Belasco's parents send her overseas to live with an aunt and uncle in their opulent San Francisco mansion. There she meets Ichimei Fukuda, the son of the family's Japanese gardener, and between them a tender love blossoms, but following Pearl Harbor the two are cruelly pulled apart. Throughout their lifetimes, Alma and Ichimei reunite again and again, but theirs is a love they are forever forced to hide from the world. Decades later, Alma is nearing the end of her long and eventful life. Irina Bazili, a care worker struggling to reconcile her own troubled past, meets the older woman and her grandson, Seth at Lark House nursing home. As Irina and Seth forge a friendship, they become intrigued by a series of mysterious gifts and letters sent to Alma, and learn about Ichimei and this extraordinary secret passion that has endured for nearly seventy years.	10	2015 322 pages  Historical Fiction / Romance
Allende, Isabel My Invented Country: a memoir	Isabel Allende evokes the magnificent landscapes of her country; a charming, idiosyncratic Chilean people with a violent history and an indomitable spirit, and the politics, religion, myth and magic of her homeland, that she carries with her even today.	10	2003 224 pages Non Fiction Chile
Anderson, Jessica Tirra Lirra by the River 	Nora Porteous, a witty, ambitious woman from Brisbane, returns to her childhood home at age 70. Her life has taken her from a failed marriage in Sydney to freedom in London. She forged a modest career as a seamstress and lived with two dear friends through the happiest years of her adult life. At home, the neighborhood children she remembers have grown into compassionate adults. They help to nurse her back from pneumonia, and slowly let her in on the dark secrets of the neighborhood in the years that have lapsed. With grace and humor, Nora recounts her desire to escape, the way her marriage went wrong, the vanity that drove her to get a facelift, and one romantic sea voyage that has kept her afloat during her dark years.	10	1978 181 pages Australia Women

Andersson, Per J. Amazing Story of the Man Who Cycled from India to Europe for Love	PK was born into a poor, untouchable family in a remote village on the edge of the jungle in eastern India. All his life he has kept a palm leaf bearing an astrologer's prophecy: "You will marry a girl who is not from the village, not from the district, not even from our country; she will be musical, own a jungle and be born under the sign of the ox." But not until PK attends art school in New Delhi do his stars begin to align. One evening, while drawing portraits in a park, he meets Lotta who change the courses of their lives forever. This is a true story of how a young Indian man armed with nothing more than a handful of paintbrushes and a second-hand Raleigh bicycle made his way across Asia and Europe in search of the woman he loves.	10	2017 304 pages Non Fiction Biography
Appleyard, Meredith The Country Practice 	Meghan Kimble is taking control of her life. Newly single, she's returned to Australia to follow her dream of working as a GP. And her first stop is a month-long locum in the colourful community of Magpie Creek. It's been months since the town has had a doctor and Meghan is generating more than her fair share of attention, especially from forthright farmer Sean Ashby. A handsome man with a difficult past, Sean isn't shy about making his intentions known to the red-headed medico. Against her better judgement, Meghan finds herself charmed by the enigmatic Sean but questioning her priorities on career and personal life.	10	2015 363 pages Romance Medical South Australia
Arguile, Katherine Tamiko The Things she Owned	Years after the death of her cruel and complicated mother, Erika's house is still full of the things Michiko left behind: an Onigiri basket, a Wedgwood tea set, a knotted ring from Okinawa. In defiance of Japanese tradition, Erika has also kept the urn containing Michiko's ashes, refusing to put her memory to rest. Erika throws herself into working as a chef at a high-end London restaurant and pretends everything is fine. But when a cousin announces that she will be visiting from Japan, Erika's resolve begins to crack. Slowly the things Michiko owned reveal stories of Michiko's youth amid the upheaval of Tokyo during and after the war. As the two women's stories progress and entwine, Erika is drawn to the island of Okinawa, the homeland of her grandmother. It's a place of magic and mysticism where the secrets of Erika's own past are waiting to be revealed. (Description from Booktopia).	10	2020 273 pages Historical fiction War
Armstrong, Diane The Voyage of Their Life 	In August 1948, 545 passengers boarded an overcrowded, clapped-out vessel in Marseilles to face an uncertain future in Australia and New Zealand. They came from displaced persons camps in Germany, death camps in Poland, labour camps in Hungary, gulags in Siberia and stony Aegean islands. Diane Armstrong set sail on the Derna with her parents when she was nine years old. Like a detective searching for clues, she has located more than 100 of the passengers. Through their recollections and memorabilia, as well as archival documents, she has recreated the voyage and traced what became of their hopes and dreams. The result is the unique portrayal of a migrant ship and its passengers.	10	2001 534 pages Non Fiction Immigration Europeans - Australia Travels
Ashley, Melissa The Birdman's Wife	Artist Elizabeth Gould spent her life capturing the sublime beauty of birds the world had never seen before, but her legacy was eclipsed by the fame of her husband, John Gould. Atkinson, Kate Transcription	In 1940, eighteen-year old Juliet Armstrong is reluctantly recruited into the world of espionage. Sent to an obscure department of MI5 tasked with monitoring the comings and goings of British Fascist sympathizers, she discovers the work to be by turns both tedious and terrifying. But after the war has ended, she presumes the events of those years have been relegated to the past for ever. Ten years later, now a producer at the BBC, Juliet is unexpectedly confronted by figures from her past. A different war is being fought now, on a different battleground, but Juliet finds herself once more under threat. A bill of reckoning is due, and she finally begins to realise that there is no action without consequence.	10	2018 343 pages Historical Fiction
Attenborough, David A Life on our Planet	A life on our planet: my witness statement and a vision for a future. Austen, Jane Emma	Beautiful, clever, rich – and single Emma Woodhouse is perfectly content with her life and sees no need for either love or marriage. Nothing, however, delights her more than interfering in the romantic lives of others. But when she ignores the warnings of her good friend Mr Knightley and attempts to arrange a suitable match for her protégé Harriet Smith, her carefully laid plans soon unravel and have consequences that she never expected. With its imperfect but charming heroine and its witty and subtle exploration of relationships, Emma is often seen as Jane Austen's most flawless work. Austen, Jane Mansfield Park	Jane Austen's third novel follows ten-year-old Fanny Price, whose penniless family sends her to live with her wealthy relatives. Shy and ignored, Fanny is treated unkindly by her cousins, her two aunts, and her uncle. As Fanny grows up, scandals and tragedies plague the family. The story of a young woman trying to find her place in society, this classic coming of age story was revolutionary for its time.	10	1814 / 2014 560 pages Classic
Ayres, Eddie Danger music	In 2014 Emma was spiralling into a deep depression, driven by anguish about her gender. She quit the radio, travelled, and decided on a surprising path to salvation - teaching music in a war zone. Emma applied for a position at Dr Sarmast's renowned Afghanistan National Institute of Music in Kabul, teaching cello to orphans and street kids. In Danger Music, Eddie takes us through the bombs and chaos of Kabul, into the lives of the Afghan children who are transported by Bach, Abba, Beethoven and their own exhilarating Afghan music. Alongside these epic experiences, Emma determines to take the final steps to secure her own peace; she becomes the man always there inside - Eddie.	10	2017 286 pages Non Fiction Biography
Backman, Fredrik Anxious People	In a small town in Sweden it appears to be an ordinary day. But look more closely, and you'll see a masked figure approaching a bank. Two hours later, chaos has descended. An attempted robbery has developed into a hostage situation with the offender refusing to voice their demands. Fear turns to irritation for the seven strangers trapped inside. If this is to be their last day on earth, shouldn't it be more dramatic? But as the minutes tick by, they begin to suspect that the criminal holding them hostage might be more in need of rescuing than they are. Description by Booktopia.	10	2019 407 pages Humorous fiction

Backman, Fredrik A man called Ove 	At first sight, Ove is almost certainly the grumpiest man you will ever meet. He thinks himself surrounded by idiots - neighbours who can't reverse a trailer properly, joggers, shop assistants who talk in code, and the perpetrators of the vicious coup d'etat that ousted him as Chairman of the Residents' Association. He will persist in making his daily inspection rounds of the local streets. But isn't it rare, these days, to find such old-fashioned clarity of belief and deed? Such unswerving conviction about what the world should be, and a lifelong dedication to making it just so? In the end, you will see, there is something about Ove that is quite irresistible...	10	2014 473 pages Large Print
Baird, Julia Bright Shining	We live in an era when grace is an increasingly rare currency. The author explores what grace would look like in our world, and how we recognise it, nurture it in ourselves and express it even in the darkest of times.		2023 279 pages Self-help
Baird, Julia Phosphorescence	On awe, wonder and things that sustain you when the world goes dark...how do we continue to glow when the lights go out? Barnes, Julian The Sense of an Ending	Winner of the Man Booker Prize for Fiction in 2011. Tony Webster and his clique first met Adrian Finn at school. Sex-hungry and book-hungry, they would navigate the girl-less sixth form together, trading in affectations, in-jokes, rumour and wit. Maybe Adrian was a little more serious than the others, certainly more intelligent, but they all swore to stay friends for life. Now Tony is retired. He's had a career and a single marriage, a calm divorce. He's certainly never tried to hurt anybody. Memory, though, is imperfect. It can always throw up surprises, as a lawyer's letter is about to prove. (Description from Angus &amp; Robertson)	10	2012 163 pages Memory

Cain, Susan Quiet : the power of introverts in a world that can't stop talking	At least one-third of the people we know are introverts. They are the ones who prefer listening to speaking; who innovate and create but dislike self-promotion; who favor working on their own over working in teams. It is to introverts that we owe many of the great contributions to society. This book argues that we dramatically undervalue introverts and shows how much we lose in doing so and has the power to permanently change how we see introverts and, equally important, how they see themselves.	10	2012 266 pages Introversion Extraversion Creative ability

Cunningham, Laura Sleeping Arrangements	The memoir of Lily Shaine, an orphan brought up by her two eccentric bachelor uncles. Uncle Len is a 6 foot 6 inch private investigator, a trench-coated cross between Abraham Lincoln and Sam Spade. Uncle Gabe, the librarian, is a confirmed dreamer who writes gospel songs in his spare time. With her uncles as mentors, the human jungle of the Bronx in the 1950s as her playground, the schoolroom as her torture chamber, and very knowing little girls as her playmates, Lily learns the secrets of life, sex, death and, above all, family love. A wry, funny and deeply affectionate portrait of the most unlikely of happy families this is a modern classic. (Description from Dymocks)	10	1989 228 pages Romance
Dalrymple, William The Golden Road	For a millennium and a half, from about 250 BC to 1200 AD, India was a confident exporter of its diverse civilisation, creating around it a vast empire of ideas, an 'Indosphere' where its influence was predominant. William Dalrymple draws from a lifetime of scholarship to highlight India's oft-forgotten position as the heart of ancient Eurasia. For the first time, he gives a name to this spread of Indian ideas that transformed the world. From the largest Hindu temple in the world at Angkor Wat to the Buddhism of China, from the trade that helped fund the Roman Empire to the creation of the numerals we use today (including zero), India transformed the culture and technology of its ancient world - and our world today as we know it.	10	2024 298 pages Non fiction

Gaiman, Neil The Ocean at the End of the Lane	This is what he remembers, as he sits by the ocean at the end of the lane: A dead man on the back seat of the car, and warm milk at the farmhouse. An ancient little girl, and an old woman who saw the moon being made. A beautiful housekeeper with a monstrous smile. And dark forces woken that were best left undisturbed. They are memories hard to believe, waiting at the edge of things. The recollections of a man who thought he was lost but is now, perhaps, remembering a time when he was saved.	10	2013 235 pages Young Adult Fantasy
Gaita, Raimond Romulus, my Father 	Romulus Gaita fled Yugoslavia aged thirteen, and came to Australia with his wife and their son soon after World War II. Tragic events were to overtake the boy's life, but Raimond Gaita has an extraordinary and moving tale to tell of growing up with his father in country Victoria. Romulus, My Father is the much-loved story of how a compassionate, honest man taught his son the meaning of living a decent life.	10	1998 208 pages Classic Non Fiction

Garcia Marquez, Gabriel One Hundred Years of Solitude	Winner of 1982 Nobel Prize for Literature - A band of adventurers establish a town in the heart of the South American jungle. The occasion marks the beginning: of the world, of a great family, and of a century of extraordinary events. A note of warning: The text is confronting to some, covering murder, insanity, obsession, depravity, serial rape, incest and other revolting acts. Added to this you may find the challenge of the long tracts of text that are often unrelieved by paragraph breaks and also the confusing duplication of names. However, it is quite an extraordinary novel that has been translated into 46 languages and sold more than 50 million copies. First published in 1967.	10	1970 336 pages Magical realism
Gardam, Jane God on the Rocks	During one glorious summer between the wars, the realities of life and the sexual ritual dance of the adult world creep into the life of young Margaret Marsh. Her father, preaching the doctrine of the unsavoury Primal Saints; her mother, bitterly nostalgic for what might have been; Charles and Binkie, anchored in the past; dying Mrs Frayling and Lydia the maid – all contribute to Margaret's shattering moment of truth. And when the storm breaks the summer hurtles towards drama, tragedy and a touch of farce.	10	1978 215 pages Domestic fiction

Garner, Helen Everywhere I look 	A collection of essays, diary entries and true stories spanning more than fifteen years of the work of one of Australia's greatest writers. It includes her famous and controversial essay on the insults of age, her deeply moving tribute to her mother, and the story of her joy in discovering the ukulele. It is a multifaceted profound portrait of life. It glows with wisdom and insight. Great stories to discuss...	10	2016 227 pages Non Fiction
Garner, Helen the first stone 	In the autumn of 1992, two young women students at Melbourne University went to the police claiming that they had been indecently assaulted at a party. The man they accused was the head of their co-ed residential college. The shock of these charges split the community and painfully focused the debate about sex and power.	10	1995 222 pages Crime Power
Garner, Helen Joe Cinque's Consolation 	A true story of death, grief and the law. In October 1997, a law student at ANU made a bizarre plan to murder her boyfriend after a dinner party at their house. Some of the guests had heard rumours of the plan. Nobody warned Joe Cinque. He died one Sunday, in his own bed, of a massive dose of Rohypnol and heroin. His girlfriend and her best friend were charged with murder. Helen Garner followed the trials in the ACT Supreme Court. This book probes the gap between ethics and the law....and explores conscience, culpability, and the battered ideal of duty of care.	10	2004 328 pages Non fiction True Crime

Garner, Helen This House of Grief: the story of a murder trial 	On Father's Day 2005, three young boys drowned when the car their father was driving went off the road and plunged into a dam. Was it possible that this could be a deliberate act, an embittered ex-husband's revenge on his wife? When the case went to court, it became Helen Garner's obsession, and she followed the proceedings until the final verdict.	10	2014 300 pages Non fiction True Crime

Garner, Helen The Season 	A tender portrayal of the relationship between grandmother and grandson, and of that moment on the cusp of adulthood when a boy is both child and man. I pull up at the kerb. I love this park they train in. I must have walked the figure-of-eight around its ovals hundreds of times, at dawn, winter and summer, to throw the ball for Dozer, our red heeler. The boy jumps out with his footy and trots away, bouncing it. Boy? Look at him. He's five foot eleven. The last of my three grandkids. This year he's in the Under 16s. It's footy season in Melbourne, and Helen Garner is following her grandson's suburban team. She turns up not only at every game (give or take), but at every training session, shivering on the sidelines in the dark, fascinated by the spectacle.	10	2024 188 pages Non fiction Sport Autobiography

Gaskell, Elizabeth North and South	Set in the fictional industrial town of Milton in the north of England. Forced to leave her home in the tranquil, rural south, Margaret Hale settles with her parents in Milton. She witnesses the brutal world wrought by the Industrial Revolution, seeing employers and workers clashing in the first strikes. Sympathetic to the poor, whose courage and tenacity she admires and among whom she makes friends, she clashes with John Thornton. John is a nouveau riche cotton-mill owner who is contemptuous of his workers. The novel traces her growing understanding of the complexity of labour relations and their impact on well-meaning mill owners and her relationship with John Thornton.	10	1996 496 pages England Social classes

Nothing is missing from her carefully timetabled life. Except, sometimes, everything. One simple act of kindness is about to shatter the walls Eleanor has built around herself. Now she must learn how to navigate the world that everyone else seems to take for granted – while searching for the courage to face the dark corners she's avoided all her life. Change can be good. Change can be bad. But surely any change should be better than... fine ?	10	2017 383 pages Relationships Social – isolation Women
 Hooper, Chloe The arsonist: a mind on fire 	On the scorching February day in 2009 that became known as Black Saturday, a man lit two fires in Victoria's Latrobe Valley, then sat on the roof of his house to watch the inferno. In the Valley, where the rates of crime were the highest in the state, more than 30 people were known to police as firebugs. But the detectives found themselves on the trail of a man they didn't know. The Arsonist takes readers on the hunt for this man, and inside the strange puzzle of his mind. It is also the story of fire in this country, and of a community that owed its existence to that very element. The command of fire has defined and sustained us as a species – understanding its abuse will define our future.	10	2018 245 pages Bushfires Australia True Crime Non Fiction

Hughes, Kathryn George Eliot: The Last Victorian	Mary Ann Evans, aka George Eliot (1819-1880) achieved lasting renown with the novels Silas Marner , Middlemarch , and Adam Bede . Her masterworks were written after years of living an unconventional life, including a scandalous voyage to Europe with the married writer and editor George Henry Lewes. The scandal intensified when she moved in with Lewes after he separated from his wife. Eliot re-entered London's social life years later, when her literary success made it impossible for respectable society to dismiss her (even Queen Victoria enjoyed her books). She counted among her friends and supporters Dickens, Trollope, and several other Victorian literati. In this intimate biography, author Hughes provides insight into Eliot's life and work, weighing Eliot's motivations for her controversial actions, and examining the paradoxical Victorian society which she documented to perfection in her novels. Isaacson, Walter The Code Breaker: Jennifer Doudna, Gene Editing and the Future of the Human Race	When Jennifer Doudna was in sixth grade, she came home one day to find that her dad had left a paperback titled The Double Helix on her bed. She put it aside, thinking it was one of those detective tales she loved. When she read it on a rainy Saturday, she discovered she was right, in a way. As she sped through the pages, she became enthralled by the intense drama behind the competition to discover the code of life. Even though her high school counselor told her girls didn't become scientists, she decided she would. Driven by a passion to understand how nature works and to turn discoveries into inventions, she would help to make what the book's author, James Watson, told her was the most important biological advance since his codiscovery of the structure of DNA. She and her collaborators turned a curiosity of nature into an invention that will transform the human race: an easy-to-use tool that can edit DNA. Known as CRISPR, it opened a brave new world of medical miracles and moral questions. The development of CRISPR and the race to create vaccines for coronavirus will hasten our transition to the next great innovation revolution. The past half-century has been a digital age, based on the microchip, computer, and internet. Now we are entering a life-science revolution. Ishiguro, Kazuo Never Let Me Go 	Shortlisted for 2005 Booker Prize for Fiction – Kathy, Ruth and Tommy were pupils at Hailsham – an idyllic establishment deep in the English countryside. The children there were tenderly sheltered from the outside world, brought up to believe they were special, and that their personal welfare was crucial. But why were they really there? It is only years later that Kathy, now thirty-one, allows herself to yield to the pull of memory. What unfolds is a haunting story of how Kathy, Ruth and Tommy slowly come to face the truth about their seemingly happy childhoods – and about their futures.	10	2005 263 pages Science Fiction
Ivey, Eowyn The Snow Child	Alaska, 1920: a brutal place to homestead, and especially tough for recent arrivals Jack and Mabel. Childless, they are drifting apart – he is struggling to maintain the farm; she's crumbling from loneliness and despair. In a moment of levity during the season's first snowfall, they build a child out of snow. The next morning the snow child is gone—but they glimpse a young, blonde-haired girl running through the trees. This little girl, who calls herself Faina, seems to be a child of the woods. She hunts with a red fox at her side, skims lightly across the snow, and somehow survives alone in the Alaskan wilderness. As Jack and Mabel struggle to understand this child, they come to love her as their own daughter. Jukes, Helen The Honeybee heart has five Openings	Entering her thirties, Helen Jukes feels trapped in an urban grind of office politics and temporary addresses – disconnected, stressed. Struggling to settle into her latest job and home in Oxford, she realises she needs to effect a change if she's to create a meaningful life for herself.. Then friends give her the gift of a colony of honeybees and Helen embarks on her first full year of beekeeping. But what does it mean to 'keep' wild creatures? In learning about the bees, what can she learn of herself? And can travelling inside the hive free her outside it? As Helen grapples with her role in the delicate, awe-inspiring ecosystem of the hive, the very act of keeping seems to open up new perspectives, deepen friendships old and new, and make her world come alive. A Honeybee Heart Has Five Openings is at once a fascinating exploration of the honeybee and the hive, the practices of honey-gathering and the history of our observation of bees; and a beautifully wrought meditation on responsibility and care, on vulnerability and trust, on forging bonds and breaking new ground. Laveau-Harvie, Vicki The Erratics	Finch Memoir Prize - When her elderly mother is hospitalised after an accident, Vicki and her sister travel to their parents' isolated ranch home in Alberta, Canada, to help their father. Estranged from their parents for many years, Vicki and her sister are horrified by what they discover on their arrival. For years their mother has camouflaged her manic delusions and savage unpredictability, and over the decades she has managed to shut herself and her husband from the outside world systematically starving him and making him a virtual prisoner in his own home. Vicki and her sister have a lot to do, in very little time. And they have to contend with their mother whose favourite phrase during their childhood years was 'I'll get you and you won't even know I'm doing it'. A sharp, darkly funny and wholly compelling memoir – it will take your breath away.	10	2018 217 pages Family relationships Mental Health Non Fiction Autobiography
Lay, Graeme The Secret Life of James Cook	A fictionalised account of the famous navigator's early naval career, his marriage to Elizabeth and their family life. Graeme examines the relationship between James and his equally remarkable wife, Elizabeth, the woman he married when he was 34 and she 21, and by whom he had six children, all born while he was away at sea. Depicts the often-stormy relationship between the self-made English naval commander Joseph Banks, who accompanied Cook on his first world voyage. Lee, Harper To Kill a Mockingbird	1961 Pulitzer Prize winner - The classic story of a black man charged with the rape of a white girl and a town steeped in prejudice. Set in Maycomb, Alabama this is an enchanting, intensely moving story as seen through the eyes of Scout and Jem Finch. At the age of eight, Scout Finch is an entrenched free-thinker. She can accept her father's warning that it is a sin to kill a mockingbird, because mockingbird harms no one and gives great pleasure. The time is the Depression, but Scout and her brother, Jem, are seldom depressed. Their father Atticus is a man of unfaltering good will and humour, and partly because of this, the children become involved in some disturbing adult mysteries.	10 + CD	1960 309 pages Classic

Macintyre Ben A spy among friends: Philby and the great betrayal	Kim Philby was the greatest spy in history, a brilliant and charming man who rose to head Britain's counterintelligence against the Soviet Union during the height of the Cold War--while he was secretly working for the enemy. And nobody thought he knew Philby like Nicholas Elliott, Philby's best friend and fellow officer in MI6. The two men had gone to the same schools, belonged to the same exclusive clubs, grown close through the crucible of wartime intelligence work and long nights of drink and revelry. It was madness for one to think the other might be a communist spy, bent on subverting Western values and the power of the free world. But Philby was secretly betraying his friend. Every word Elliott breathed to Philby was transmitted back to Moscow--and not just Elliott's words, for in America, Philby had made another powerful friend: James Jesus Angleton, the crafty, paranoid head of CIA counterintelligence. Angleton's and Elliott's unwitting disclosures helped Philby sink almost every important Anglo-American spy operation for twenty years, leading countless operatives to their doom. Even as the web of suspicion closed around him, and Philby was driven to greater lies to protect his cover, his two friends never abandoned him--until it was too late. The stunning truth of his betrayal would have devastating consequences on the two men who thought they knew him best, and on the intelligence services he left crippled in his wake.	10	2014 298 pages Spies - Great Britain Espionage – Russia Non Fiction

Mackrell, Judith The unfinished palazzo	Commissioned in 1750, the Palazzo Venier was planned as a testimony to the power and wealth of a great Venetian family, but the fortunes of the Venier family waned and the project was abandoned with only one storey complete. Empty, unfinished, and in a gradual state of decay, the building was considered an eyesore. Yet in the early 20th century the Unfinished Palazzo's quality of fairytale abandonment, and its potential for transformation, were to attract and inspire three fascinating women at key moments in their lives: Luisa Casati, Doris Castlerosse and Peggy Guggenheim. Each chose the Palazzo Venier as the stage on which to build her own world of art and imagination, surrounded by an amazing supporting cast, from d'Annunzio and Nijinsky, via Noel Coward and Cecil Beaton, to Yoko Ono.	10	2018 388 pages Non Fiction Rich and famous Palaces History

Murasaki Shikibu The Tale of Genji (Abridged)	Written in the 11 th century, this exquisite portrait of courtly life in medieval Japan is widely celebrated as the world's first novel – and it is certainly one of its finest. Genji, the Shining Prince, is the son of an emperor. He is a passionate character whose tempestuous nature, family circumstances, love affairs, alliances and shifting political fortunes form the core of this magnificent epic. In this abridged edition of his superb translation, Royall Tyler once again skilfully catches the erotic flavour, the vivid characterization and the allusive poetry of this classic.	10	2001 319 pages Japanese
Murgatroyd, Sarah The dig tree	This is the story of Burke and Wills, the great explorers of the Australian outback. Alternatively comic and desperately tragic this story tells us of their travels. Governor MacDonnell had commissioned a report from Charles Todd, who unsurprisingly, stated that an overland route through the centre of the continent was the best option for the telegraph line. While the overland route seemed the most logical solution, there was one problem. No one had actually travelled from one coast to the other ie from South Australia to the Northern Territory, so who could say where the telegraph should go?	10	2002 361 pages History Non Fiction
Murn, Molly Heart of the grass tree 	Pearl remembers Nell's feet stretched towards the campfires on the beach, her fourth toe curled in and nestled against the middle toe like a small prawn. They all have a curled fourth toe – Diana, Lucy, Pearl. When Pearl's grandmother Nell dies unexpectedly, Pearl and her family – mother Diana, sister Lucy – return to Kangaroo Island to mourn and farewell her. Each of them knew Nell intimately but differently, and each woman must reckon with Nell's passing in her own way. But Nell had secrets, too, and as Pearl, Diana and Lucy interrogate their feelings about the island, Pearl starts to pull together the scraps Nell left behind – her stories, poems, paintings – and unearths a connection to the island's early history, of the early European sealers and their first contact with the Ngarrindjeri people. As the three women are in grief pulled apart from each other, Pearl's deepening connection to their history, the island's history, grounds her, and will ultimately bring the women back to each other.	10	2019 291 pages Local Author Historical fiction

Murray, Douglas The madness of crowds	Douglas Murray examines the twenty-first century's most divisive issues - sexuality, gender, technology and race. He reveals the astonishing new culture wars playing out in our workplaces, universities, schools and homes in the names of social justice, identity politics and 'intersectionality'. In their place have emerged a crusading desire to right perceived wrongs and a weaponisation of identity, both accelerated by the new forms of social and news media. Narrow sets of interests now dominate the agenda as society becomes more and more tribal and, as Murray shows, the casualties are mounting.	10	2019 267 Pages Politics & race LGBT Feminism Non Fiction
Myron, Vicki Dewey: the small town cat	On the coldest morning of the year, Vicki found a tiny bedraggled kitten almost frozen to death in the night drop box of the library where she worked, and her life – and the town of Spencer, Iowa – would never be the same. Vicki's biggest challenge was to raise the spirits of a small out-of-the-way town, deep in the farm crisis of the 1980s. Dewey, as the townspeople named the kitten, quickly grew into a strutting and adorable library cat whose antics kept patrons in stitches, and whose sixth sense about those in need created hundreds of loving friendships. As news of the library cat spread, fans drove hundreds of miles to meet Dewey, and people all over the world fell in love with him.	10	2008 277 pages Non Fiction

Obama, Michelle Becoming	As First Lady of the United States of America - the first African-American to serve in that role - she helped create the most welcoming and inclusive White House in history. Whilst doing so she also established herself as a powerful advocate for women and girls in the U.S. and around the world, dramatically changing the ways that families pursue healthier and more active lives and standing with her husband as he led America through some of its most harrowing moments. Along the way she showed us a few dance moves, crushed Carpool Karaoke, and raised two down-to-earth daughters under an unforgiving media glare. In her memoir, a work of deep reflection and mesmerizing storytelling, Michelle Obama invites readers into her world, chronicling the experiences that have shaped her - from her childhood on the south side of Chicago to her years as an executive balancing the demands of motherhood and work, to her time spent at the world's most famous address. With unerring honesty and lively wit, she describes her triumphs and her disappointments, both public and private, telling her full story as she has lived it, in her own words and on her own terms.	10	2018 421 pages Biography Politics Non Fiction

Poitier, Sidney The measure of a man	"I have no wish to play the pontificating fool, pretending that I've suddenly come up with the answers to all life's questions. Quite the contrary, I began this book as an exploration, an exercise in self-questing. In other words, I wanted to find out, as I looked back at a long and complicated life, with many twists and turns, how well I've done at measuring up to the values I myself have set." In this luminous memoir, a true American icon looks back on his celebrated life and career. His body of work is arguably the most morally significant in cinematic history, and the power and influence of that work are indicative of the character of the man behind the many storied roles. Sidney Poitier here explores these elements of character and personal values to take his own measure--as a man, as a husband and a father, and as an actor. He credits his parents and his childhood on tiny Cat Island in the Bahamas for equipping him with the unflinching sense of right and wrong and of self-worth that he has never surrendered and that have dramatically shaped his world. "In the kind of place where I grew up," recalls Poitier, "what's coming at you is the sound of the sea and the smell of the wind and momma's voice and the voice of your dad and the craziness of your brothers and sisters...and that's it." Without television, radio, and material distractions to obscure what matters most, he could enjoy the simple things, endure the long commitments, and find true meaning in his life.	10	2000 243 pages Autobiography Non fiction

Sebba, Anne That Woman	The first full biography by a woman of Wallis Simpson, Duchess of Windsor. 'That woman', as she was referred to by the Queen Mother, became a hate figure for ensnaring a British king and destabilising the monarchy. Neither beautiful nor brilliant, she nevertheless became one of the most talked-about women of her generation and she inspired such deep love and adoration in Edward VIII that he gave up a throne and an empire for her. Wallis lived by her wit and her wits, while both her apparent and alleged moral transgressions added to her aura and dazzle.	10	2011 283 pages Non fiction

Tyler, Anne A Spool of Blue Thread	'It was a beautiful, breezy, yellow-and-green afternoon.' This is the way Abby Whitshank always begins the story of how she and Red fell in love that day in July 1959. The whole family on the porch, relaxed, half listening as their mother tells the same tale they have heard so many times before, and yet this gathering is different. Abby and Red are getting older, and decisions must be made about how best to look after them and their beloved family home. They have all come, even Denny, who can usually be relied on only to please himself. From that porch we spool back through three generations of the Whitshanks, witnessing the events, secrets and unguarded moments that have come to define who and what they are. While all families like to believe they are special, round that kitchen table over all those years we also see played out our own hopes and fears, rivalries and tensions – the essential nature of family life.	10	2015 358 pages Family saga

Walter, Bob There's nothing wrong with me: the veteran's journey into the PTSD minefield	Forty years after his army service in Vietnam, the author was diagnosed with chronic late onset post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD). He was but one of the many veterans affected. While undergoing rehabilitation at the Repatriation Hospital, Bob found that it helped to express his thoughts and feelings through poetry. He later discovered other veterans and their partners who had written poems or short stories about their own journey with PTSD and its impact on their lives. This books offers insights, encouragement, and above all, hope. It also assists the wider community to understand the human costs incurred on the veteran and their family throughout their lives.	10	2012 50 pages Non fiction
Waters, Sarah The little stranger	Shortlisted for the 2009 Man Booker Prize – In a dusty post-war summer in rural Warwickshire a doctor is called to a patient at lonely Hundreds Hall. Home to the Ayres family for over two centuries, the Georgian house, once grand and handsome, is now in decline, its masonry crumbling, its gardens choked with weeds, the clock in the stable yard permanently fixed at twenty to nine. Its owners – mother, son and daughter – are struggling to keep pace with a changing society, as well as conflicts of their own. But are the Ayres haunted by something more sinister than a dying way of life?	10	2009 499 pages Haunted houses
Waters, Sarah The night watch	This is the story of four Londoners - three women and a young man with a past, drawn with absolute truth and intimacy. Kay, who drove an ambulance during the war and lived life at full throttle, now dresses in mannish clothes and wanders the streets with a restless hunger, searching and Helen, clever, sweet, much-loved, harbouring a painful secret and Viv, glamour girl, stubbornly, even foolishly loyal to her soldier lover Duncan, an apparent innocent, who has had his own demons to fight during the war. Their lives and their secrets connect in sometimes startling ways. War leads to strange alliances. Tender, tragic and beautifully poignant set against the backdrop of feats of heroism both epic and ordinary here is a novel of relationships that offers up subtle surprises and twists.	10	2006 470 pages Historical fiction
Watson, Don The Bush: Travels in the heart of Australia 	Most Australians live in cities and cling to the coastal fringe, yet our sense of what an Australian is – or should be – is drawn from the vast and varied inland called the bush. Starting with his forebears' battle to drive back nature and eke a living from the land, Don Watson explores the bush as it was and as it now is: the triumphs and the ruination, the commonplace and the bizarre, the stories we like to tell about ourselves and the national character, and those we don't. Via mountain ash and Mallee, the birds and the beasts, slaughter, fire, flood and drought, swagmen, sheep and their shepherds, the strange and the familiar, the tragedies and the follies – here is a journey that only our leading writer of non-fiction could take us on.	10	2014 378 pages Non fiction Australian landscape
Westover, Tara Educated 	Tara Westover grew up preparing for the End of Days, watching for the sun to darken, for the moon to drip as if with blood. She spent her summers bottling peaches and her winters rotating emergency supplies, hoping that when the World of Men failed, her family would continue on, unaffected. She hadn't been registered for a birth certificate. She had no school records because she'd never set foot in a classroom, and no medical records because her father didn't believe in doctors or hospitals. According to the state and federal government, she didn't exist. As she grew older, her father became more radical, and her brother, more violent. At sixteen Tara decided to educate herself. Her struggle for knowledge would take her far from her Idaho mountains, over oceans and across continents, to Harvard and to Cambridge. Only then would she wonder if she'd travelled too far. If there was still a way home.	10	2018 377 pages Memoir Non fiction

Williams, Pip The Bookbinder of Jericho  	In 1914, when the war draws the young men of Britain away to fight, it is the women who must keep the nation running. Two of those women are Peggy and Maude, twin sisters who work in the bindery at Oxford University Press in Jericho. Peggy is intelligent, ambitious and dreams of going to Oxford University, but for most of her life she has been told her job is to bind the books, not read them. Maude, meanwhile, wants nothing more than what she has. She is extraordinary but vulnerable. Peggy needs to watch over her. When refugees arrive from the devastated cities of Belgium, it sends ripples through the community and through the sisters' lives. Peggy begins to see the possibility of another future where she can use her intellect and not just her hands, but as war and illness reshape her world, it is love, and the responsibility that comes with it, that threaten to hold her back. 2 Book Sets available	10	2023 432 pages Historical fiction
